

Apply to be an Instructor

Are you a woodworker wanting to share your craft? Becoming an instructor at Sawtooth is a terrific way to share what you love about woodworking with a larger community. Each of our instructors brings their own experience, expertise and style to the classroom. If you have a project to share, a willingness to teach, and can maintain a high standard of safety in the woodshop, we want to hear from you!

Contact Josie Vogel, Director of Woodworking at wood@sawtooth.org, with a current CV/resume, introducing yourself and explaining why you are interested in becoming a woodworking instructor at Sawtooth and what woodworking projects and skills you would like to teach.

Applicants must:

- Have experience in woodworking or woodturning
- Be able to teach the use of woodworking tools, techniques and concepts safely
- Be interested in working with others, and enthusiastic about teaching and sharing your craft
