About the Program

The Artist in Residence Program at Sawtooth School for Visual Art (“Sawtooth”) is designed to encourage and enhance the creative, intellectual, professional, and personal growth of emerging studio artists. It is a period for artists to focus intensely on their work, explore new ideas and techniques, and push their work to new levels. Community involvement, professional development, and self-exploration are at the core of Sawtooth’s goals for residents.

The Ceramics Residency program is a one-year commitment. Three residents, two in wood firing and one in electric/ gas firing, are chosen by the Director of Ceramics along with a rotating jury. The selections are based on the quality of the work, its artistic merit, and the diversity of the prospective group in terms of work, background, and stage of career development.

Privileges

- Each resident will receive a semi-private studio space equipped with a pottery wheel (if desired) and shelving unit inside the Sawtooth’s ceramics studio.
- Residents will have 24/7 access to their personal studio as well as access to the community wheel throwing and hand building studios when no class is in session.
- Residents have access to the glazing room, all studio glazes, scales, and mixing equipment free of charge.
- Residents receive Sawtooth’s cost on all materials, clay, and glazes. Residents are responsible for purchasing materials to mix personal glazes, slips, engobes, terra sigillate, and plaster.
- Residents receive free bisque firings at the discretion of the Director of Ceramics.
- Residents receive six free electric or gas glaze firings at the discretion of the Director of Ceramics.

Ceramics

- Wood Fire Residents can utilize Sawtooth's wood fire kilns free of charge. Each wood fire resident is responsible for purchasing and processing firewood for personal firings.
- Residents are given the opportunity to teach at Sawtooth. Teaching positions are paid.
- Residents are given the opportunity to work as a Studio Technician outside of the required 7 hours. Hours worked as a Studio Technician in excess of the required 7 weekly hours are paid.
- Residents are encouraged to sale their work in Sawtooth's Marta Blades Gallery Shop.
- Near the end of the residency term, residents are given the opportunity to schedule a group exhibit in Sawtooth's Eleanor and Egbert Davis Gallery.

Responsibilities

- Active use of the studio space – a minimum of 20 hours a week.
- Work an average of 7 hours per week for the studio during assigned weekly shifts. During this time, residents fulfill studio obligations including but not limited to loading kilns, firings, cleaning, equipment up-keep, workshop preparation, and glaze mixing.
- Residents are responsible for their own studio tools, housing, and transportation.
- Residents are required to attend monthly residency meetings.
- At the conclusion of each residency term, residents are asked to donate a small work to Sawtooth's permanent collection.

Residents should be enthusiastic and dedicated to their artwork, enjoy working with other people in a community studio setting and have working knowledge of the ceramic

Wood Fire Kilns

Sawtooth has two wood fired kilns: 1 train kiln and 1 catenary arch wood/soda/salt kiln at The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA,) an auxiliary location about 4 miles from Sawtooth main campus.

Wood Fire Residency Program

Sawtooth's Wood Fire Residency program provides a year-long concentration dedicated to expanding one's portfolio of wood fired works. Wood fire residents should have a strong and developed body of wood fired work, have previous experience firing wood kilns, feel comfortable directing firings, possess a strong work ethic, and have a desire to work within a community setting.

The Wood Fire Resident works directly with the Director of Ceramics to maintain and expand the wood fired program at Sawtooth. Expected tasks include teaching classes
