

Gondring Residency in Woodworking

About the Program

For nearly 80 years, Sawtooth has been a creative hub for the region—an energetic craft school environment in downtown Winston-Salem, NC. Our year-long Artist-in-Residence programs encourage emerging artists to develop new skills, foster community connections, and create new bodies of work while assisting with studio operations. Sawtooth’s residencies prioritize self-exploration and personal growth while also providing ample support for professional development, including possible teaching and exhibition opportunities.

The Gondring Residency in Woodworking is a one-year program that offers emerging woodworkers the opportunity to develop their skills and gain valuable teaching experience in a supportive and welcoming environment. Chosen by the Director of Wood Programs, along with a rotating jury, applicants are evaluated based on the quality of their work, their dedication to their craft, and their willingness to bring fresh perspectives to the creative community at Sawtooth.

Privileges

- A stipend of $3,000 to support research, materials, and the creation of a body of work
- Semi-private studio space to store their materials, tools, and inprogress work.
- 24/7 access to their personal studio and access to the wood and lathe studios when no class is in session.
- The resident is eligible to take one Wood department class or workshop tuition free per session and can access discounts to other Sawtooth departments’ classes on a case-by-case basis.
- Residents have the opportunity to assist the wood department’s Visiting Artist Workshops.
- Residents have the opportunity to teach at Sawtooth. Teaching positions are paid.
- Residents are encouraged to sell their work in Sawtooth’s Marta Blades Gallery Shop and participate in Sawtooth’s annual holiday market.
- Near the end of the residency term, residents are given the opportunity to participate in an exhibition in Sawtooth’s Eleanor and Egbert Davis Gallery.

Teaching

Sawtooth is committed to strengthening our community's creative core by providing high-quality instruction and hands-on visual art experiences for students of all ages, backgrounds, and skill levels. In alignment with this mission, our Artist in Residence program supports budding craft educators in improving their teaching abilities.

Residents are not required to have any prior teaching experience, only the desire to develop their instructional skills. The resident will work closely with the Director of Wood Programs to develop classes and workshops that suit their knowledge and skill level while highlighting the unique perspective they bring to Sawtooth's community.

Responsibilities

- Active personal use of the studios ≈ 15 hours per week.
- Work 5 hours per week for the studio during assigned weekly shifts. During this time, residents fulfill studio obligations, including studio infrastructure improvements, workshop preparation, basic machine and tool maintenance, studio cleaning, and organizing.
- Residents are responsible for their own consumables, housing, and transportation.

Qualifications

- Applicants should:
 - Be enthusiastic about their craft and dedicated to pursuing their own original designs and projects.
 - Enjoy working with other people in a community studio setting and be able to use woodworking tools competently, independently, and safely.
 - Be willing to serve as Sawtooth's Gondring Resident in Woodworking for one full year.

Prior experience in an educational wood studio setting is strongly preferred. Applicants enrolled in a full-time graduate or undergraduate program during the residency period are ineligible.
